5. Interpretation, coverage, and limitations

The report uses the latest available ratio-engine record for each company. Company reporting years can differ. Sector summaries describe the 92-company ratio-engine universe and should not be interpreted as complete coverage of every company in the wider financial panel. Rule-based findings depend on configured thresholds and available data. Confidence scores are not calibrated probabilities, and absent findings do not establish an absence of risk. Historical changes are descriptive and do not establish causation. Validate source data and accounting comparability before using the outputs for decisions. This report is not investment advice.
